

Manager, producer, singer, and actor in opera and theater organizations for 10 years, are among Dick's vast credits. He was also an ordained minister. He served as Chairman of the York County Historical Committee for six years, as chairman of another historical group for nine years, and published graphic histories in compendiums for both groups.

Dick was one of President Bush's Thousand Points of Light for Volunteer Activities coinciding with Chairmanship of Yorktown's Gala Tricentennial Celebration in 1991. In January 1993 he published a 230-page biography of Brig. General Abraham Eustis, the person for whom Fort Eustis is named, a culmination of 15 years of research.

Dick was well known and much loved in the bird world and we will greatly miss his presence. ❖

Remembering Dick Ivy

With sadness, I note the passing of long-time aviculturist Dick Ivy. Aviculture has lost one of its giants. I had the opportunity to know Dick over the past several years and had the opportunity to attend his meetings and to introduce him as a speaker at AFA's last convention. I characterized him as a soldier, statesman, and Virginia gentleman. He was indeed all those, and much more. Dick had a rare combination of attributes—a passion for birds and compassion for people. That he had such a large following of dedicated bird lovers should be no surprise.

He lived what he advocated. He treated others with respect and dignity, while steadfastly maintaining his own views and ethics. I have benefited from his teachings and example, as have many. He will be sorely missed.
