

A.F.A. ATTENDS NATIONAL CAGE BIRD SHOW

Business was booming in the A.F.A. Booth at the National Cage Bird Show held in Chicago, November 13th thru 16th, 1975.

Sixty new AFA members were recruited at the display — co-shared by Kai Juhl (president of Illinois Game and Pet Breeders Society) and Pat Rex (president of Mid-American Cage Bird Society). In addition, they, with the help of all of the other club's members, sold a number of issues of the Watchbird to non-members, for a bonus price of $1.00 each.

The 'star' of the display was "Afa", an aptly named young Panama Amazon Parrot, who was donated — along with his spacious cage — by the AFA minded folks at Noah's Ark Pet Center, 2469 E. Oakton, Elk Grove Village, Illinois.

All current AFA members who attended the National Show, and all new members who joined at the show, were given a free raffle ticket for the drawing for "Afa", which took place at the banquet.

Afa's new owner is a very happy winner — Jay Knapp, son of Mr. & Mrs. Harry Knapp, of St. Louis, Missouri. This was a most appropriate winner, since the Knapps are active members in the Missouri Cage Bird Association, which just recently voted to join the A.F.A. ■
