Show of Shows

National Cage Bird Exposition and the
AFA Regional Convention
November 18, 19, 20, 1982

Editorial Note:

The very excellent prints that draw your attention to the National Cage Bird Exposition notice were painted by the renowned British artist Eric Peake. He painted the "Ideal Budgerigar" which was sold in all parts of the world where people breed and show budgies. His paintings also include a broad range of birds found in the wild as well as many favorites kept in aviaries. Eric's paintings and prints are available through his U.S. agent Carol-Rae Wilson, 10 North Applewood Court, Fairfield, Ohio 45014. See the Feb/Mar '81 Watchbird for an article and reproductions of Eric Peake's work.

The 1982 National Cage Bird Exposition will take place at the Pittsburgh Hilton, Gateway Center, Pittsburgh, Pa., 15230, on 18, 19 and 20 November 1982. This is, of course, the show-of-shows in the bird fancy and is the largest show in the United States.

This outstanding event will feature America's finest budgies, canaries, lovebirds, and cockatiels as well as a foreign bird class that will include specimens from the tiniest finch to the huge hookbills. In all, over 3000 entries are expected.

In addition to seeing America's finest birds on display, you will have an unparalleled opportunity to meet and socialize with some of the friendliest and most knowledgeable bird breeders on earth. You can make all sorts of bird deals while enjoying yourself all the while.

The A.F.A. Regional Convention takes place in conjunction with the show so you'll have a number of outstanding speakers to listen to and many workshops to learn from while you enjoy the show.

Be sure to attend this great show. You'll really feel glad you did. For more information call or write Mrs. Patricia Demko, 1145 Itin St., Pittsburgh, Pa., 15212. Telephone (412) 322-4116.
